Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claims 1-17, drawn to methods for investigating cytosine methylations in DNA sequences.

Group II, claims 18 and 19, drawn to a test strip and a kit comprising immobilized oligonucleotides.

2. The inventions listed as Groups I-II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical feature for the following reasons:

A 371 case is considered to have unity of invention only when there is a technical relationship among those inventions involving one or more of the same or corresponding technical features. The expression "special technical feature" means those technical features that define a contribution which each of the claimed inventions, considered as a whole, makes over the prior art. In the instant application, the different inventions are not linked together by a special technical feature because the invention of claim 1 was known in the art at the time the invention was made. Specifically, Jaschke et al (EP 1 138 782; cited in the IDS) discloses a method comprising hybridizing a DNA to be investigated with an oligonucleotide of defined methylation status (i.e., unmethylated), reacting the resulting hybrid with a hemi-methylation sensitive restriction enzyme, detecting whether a restriction digestion has occurred, and thereby determining the methylation status of the investigated DNA (see para [0023] and claims 1, 16-18). Accordingly, the technical features of the method of claim 1 were known in the art at the time the invention was made and do not constitute a special technical feature that defines a contribution over the prior art. Moreover, the technical feature of invention II of a test strip with oligonucleotides of different sequence immobilized thereon was known in the art at the time the invention was made. In particular, Jaschke also teaches a chip (i.e. test strip) having immobilized thereon oligonucleotide probes for each target sequence to be investigated (i.e., probes of a different sequence; see para [0015] and claim 1). Since the technical feature linking the claimed inventions was known in the art at the time the invention was made, there is no special technical feature linking the recited groups, as would be necessary to fulfill the requirement for unity of invention.

3. The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.
